Since joining DHGA in 1961, Jim has served the company in a management capacity as Project Manager, Associates and Board member until, in 1974, he succeeded the retired founder, Alden B. Dow, as Chairman of the Board. Since that time, Jim has been responsible for the corporate administration of projects totaling in excess of $20 - 25 million annually.

Also a gifted designer, Jim was the primary designer for Northwood University's DeVos-Cook Academic Center, Interlochen Center for the Arts' Corson Auditorium, Mid Michigan Medical Center, H.H. Dow High School, Greenacres City Hall, St. Jude Catholic Church and the J. Walter Thompson Signature Office Building.
